THE SURGICAL BIOLOGY CLUB

Eleventh Annual Meeting

The eleventh annual meeting of the Surgical Biology Club was held on Sunday, 27 October 1963, at the Hotel Canterbury, San Francisco, California. The morning and afternoon sessions were attended by twenty-one members. In an exceptional situation, Mr. Andrew Wilkinson, of Great Ormond, attended as guest. The following papers were presented.

1. Francis D. Moore: Problems of Transplantation of the Liver.
2. George Clowes: The Relation of Sepsis and Gangrene to the Requirements for Extra-Circulatory and Respiratory Work.
3. James D. Hardy: Transplantation of the Lung.
4. H.W. Scott: Gastric Hypothermia.
5. Richard Egdahl: Steroid Inhibition of Pituitary Adrenal Secretion.
6. David Hume: Some Studies on Renal Homotransplantation in Man.
7. John Howard: Effects of Aldosterone on Endotoxin Shock and on Homotransplantation.
8. Ben Eiseman: Surgery on Narcotic Addicts with Comments on Their Blood Volume and Chronic Hypotension.
9. Curtis Artz: Observations on the Effect of Low Molecular Dextran in Experimental Burns.

The Social hour and dinner were attended by twenty-one members and sixty guests. Dr. George H.A. Clowes, Jr., presented a most enjoyable talk, illustrated with Kodachrome slides, on sailing off the New England coast, in the Scandinavian waterways, and in the Bermuda race. The meeting, having opened at 9:00 a.m., adjourned at 10:00 p.m.

The scientific program and evening talk were superb. We are all very grateful to George Clowes for the evening paper, and to all who presented papers and discussed them during the day.
